SLIGHT BRUISE PROVES FATAL TO LA RUE GIRL

Mildred Sager, 11, Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Sager, Is Victim

DISEASE VERY RARE

Child Injured Week Ago While Playing with Number of Companions

A slight bruise received on the right leg just above the knee while playing one week ago yesterday ... caused the death of Mildred Sager, 11 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Sager, at the family home south of LaRue.

Death was caused by an attack of acute osteomyelitis, a rare disease of the bone, produced by a bruise, according to physicians of this city who were called into consultation when the girl's condition became serious.

One week ago Monday the child was playing with a number of children. She was thrown to the ground, sustaining a slight bruise just above the knee. Little attention was paid to the injury at the time. Later in the day she was stung on the index finger of the right hand by a bee.

Sent Home from School

Tuesday morning when she reported for school at the centralized building at LaRue she was sent home by County Health Commissioner ... Her right hand had become swollen from the sting. Tuesday afternoon she complained of not feeling well and went to bed. That night the bruise on her leg showed signs of becoming infected. A physician was called. Her condition continued to grow gradually worse until her death at noon yesterday.

The little girl was born near LaRue and had spent her entire life there. She was a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church of LaRue. With her parents she is survived by one sister, Ruth, and two brothers, Benjamin and Paul, all at home. She also is survived by her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Sager of near LaRue and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rogers, living in the village.

Funeral services will be held from the home at 2:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon and burial will be in the Price Cemetery near Essex.

Wilce is concentrating on the development of a blocking halfback to replace Kruskamp and pave the way for the speedy half carrier, Byron Eby. Kriss seems to have the call on this job at present. Eby showed all the skill and power of the 1926 season [illegible] dashes through the reserves line in yesterday's work out. High in Quality--- Low in Price

Motorists are beginning to learn that there's a big difference in tires, although they all look pretty much alike.

Some are made with skimpy, short staple cotton. Some have an overdose of "filler" in the rubber of the tread. Some are long on looks and short on quality.

But you won't need a microscope to be sure that the Goodyear Tire you get from me is a real buy. Goodyear mileages tell the story.

Goodyears are performing so satisfactorily for my customers that they invariably come back—not with a kick but with a boost, and for another Goodyear when they need tire equipment.

I have your size—in fresh, new stocks.

Winners of "Miss Marion" and Baby Contests To Be Named at Crystal Lake

Final arrangements for the "coronation ball," to be held at Crystal Lake pavilion, Wednesday night, when winners of the "Miss Marion" and baby show contests recently [illegible] by the American Legion will be [illegible], were made at a meeting of the committee in charge yesterday afternoon.

The contest winners will be announced at the pavilion at [illegible] and later during an intermission in the dance program formal coronation ceremonies will be held. In connection with these exercises, crowns will be fittingly bestowed upon "Miss Marion" and the city's prize baby.

Early Call of Senate Likely To Take Up Smith-Vare Cases

BY CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Sept. [illegible]

[illegible] it may be questioned that that [illegible] would [illegible].

[illegible] however, that Vare and [illegible] will remain around anyhow [illegible] when the gavel is rapped on. There are even hints of an attempt to [illegible] them after the full strength of [illegible] current has passed through them. [illegible] Nobody can guess how the experiment may [illegible].

* * *

SOME folks think Vare and Smith will sit in the senate yet, but not [illegible] the same hair-raising [illegible] started.

[illegible] are bound to [illegible] time—months perhaps [illegible] naturally [illegible] the work of the [illegible] over into them [illegible] for an early start [illegible] suggested. Possibly the [illegible] will be [illegible] isn't so urgent.

A [illegible] call seems pretty [illegible]

* * *

THE Vare and Smith cases are [illegible].

[illegible] contests are not so [illegible]. The most recent one was between [illegible] and Smith W. Brookhart, growing out of the 1924 Iowa senatorial [illegible]. Brookhart appeared to have won. His credentials were in order and he was seated, but Steck, charging election irregularities, contested. After months of investigation, the senate decided for him, put Brookhart out and put Steck in.

But in the meantime Brookhart, who, since then, has won another election and is back again, was a full-fledged senator, and it took a two-thirds majority to oust him, for it does take two-thirds to unseat a senator, once he's seated.

* * *

VARE and Smith are attacked on the ground that their nominations, not their elections, were irregular. (Incidentally Vare has an election contest pending against him, too, but that's a side issue.)

If they weren't properly nominated, they weren't legitimate candidates at all, and so can't possibly have been elected—that's the contention. Their credentials look okeh, just as Brookhart's did, but their credentials are disputed, on the theory that the whole thing goes back to their nominations—tainted at the source, so to speak.

Now the nub of it is, if they once get in, it will require a two-thirds majority to expel them, and their opponents never can muster that many, but a bare majority can prevent them from getting in, and their opponents almost certainly can scare up that many and a few over.

* * *

THEY won't get in, then. The odds are 10 to 1 on that.

But, then what?

Why, there'll be a vacant senatorship for Gov. Fisher of Pennsylvania to fill by appointment until next election day, and one for Gov. Small of Illinois to fill similarly.

And suppose Gov. Fisher appoints William S. Vare and Gov. Small appoints Frank L. Smith. Vare and Smith may not be entitled to senate seats now, but those appointments will be pretty hard to puncture.

If that happens—and it looks like middling good betting—then's when the real row will start in the senate.

These folk eagerly await the coming session of the United States senate, for it will determine the Pennsylvania senatorial election. William B. Wilson, Democrat, shown with Mrs. Wilson, is contending that William S. Vare, Republican, inset, wasn't elected.

Clinic Proposed

Development of the free clinic [illegible] children at City Hospital and the [illegible] classes in [illegible] would be a part of the work [illegible] it was pointed out. As an example of what can be accomplished in nutrition classes it was stated by Nurse Leta Maupin that as the result of such classes in one school of the city one child gained 15 pounds while another gained from eight and 10 pounds with a corresponding gain in health. The work at this particular school was in charge of Mrs. Loring K. Wagner.

While definite plans as to the methods to be used in the annual roll call were not worked out at the meeting it is probable that the Pittsburgh plan as used in the last four campaigns will be used again this year. The plan of mailing to each home in the city literature of the work of the Red Cross together with an envelope in which the contribution can be placed by those who desire to [illegible] with the instruction that it be ready when the solicitor calls on Saturday afternoon was discussed at the meeting last night.

It is also the plan to strive for more group subscriptions. It was explained by the vice-chairman that one half of each one dollar donation must be forwarded to the national chapter while under the group plan only 50 cents of each group subscription is required by the national chapter.

The Fight Ballyhoo

The Tunney Dempsey bout for the heavyweight championship of the world is to be the last of the big money fights Frank [illegible] sports expert declared in an article written for the Star last week

And it seems the big money fights are going out in a blaze of glory. Never has so much publicity and propaganda been hurled at a wondering sport world. Never have such preparations been made for a boxing bout. Newspapers vying with each other for readers have outdone each other in giving page after page to dope about the contenders. Radio dealers have spent large sums telling the public through advertising mediums just what good ringside seats their receiving sets will give the purchasers. And such interest has been stirred up that the gross receipts at Soldiers' field Chicago Thursday night are expected to amount to $3 000 000. A staggering figure for a single sporting exhibition of thirty minutes at the most an exhibition that already has three fourths of its prospective attendants wondering just what it is all about

New York was fed up on these big money fights declared Menke. Rickard knew it. So Chicago became the fatted calf. And Menke hints that Chicago will be fed up after Thursday night

Isn't it the promoters and the fighters and the backers who are killing their own business? Even the most gullible can not stand for much more of the dribble and piffle that is coming out of the respective training camps of the champion and the ex champion challenger. The acme of this bunk was reached yesterday when Dempsey in an open letter challenged Tunney to "tell the truth" about last year's Philadelphia bout. And Tunney in turn writes that Jack is only making a poor plea for sympathy

Not only to fans but especially to newspapermen, is this last attempt to draw words from a fagged out sport dictionary a staggering monstrosity, for it is only too well known that the Messrs Dempsey and Tunney's literary efforts are the product of ghost writers who by this time are near the end of their writing limit

We are thinking of entertaining our next batch of visiting wife's relatives with a street car ride as a decided novelty writes Bob Ryder in the Ohio State Journal. That would be an easy way for a Marion man to permanently rid himself of the duties of a host

Paying Through the Nose.

American legion veterans who are attending the convention in Paris are commencing to wonder if France expects them to pay off the bulk of the war debt. They always knew the French were thrifty and some have been convinced that the rather scrawny appearance of the figures on the French coins are due to the severe squeezing that Pierre and Marie give the francs they get

The French welcome to the American ex service men was a hearty one but the prices that are charged the doughboys in the French capital convinces them that when the welcoming hand was extended, the palm was up

Less than a decade ago American money was no good in Paris. When the armistice was declared the volatile Parisians showered upon the American doughboys almost everything they had and sought no recompense

With the passing of the years things have changed. Many Frenchmen without logical reason, thought America would at once forget all about the millions that France had borrowed to carry on the war and to support a standing army which is still one of the greatest in the world. Economies compelled by rehabilitation problems pinched them and many a peasant had to draw upon the sock hidden in the chimney place or in the broken crock on the top shelf of the kitchen cupboard

To many Frenchmen American summer tourists are representative of all Americans. Because they must they spend much money when abroad. Sometimes the money apparently scattered so lavishly represents the careful savings of years but the French are led to believe that all Americans are made of money

Some of the American [illegible] the Paris convention on a meager [illegible]. Some of them had to start back home without even staying for the convention when their funds ran out. One recalls [illegible] the typical expense budget mapped out by the legion headquarters which allotted [illegible] dollars for all incidental expenses in [illegible] week assuming that the average [illegible] expected to make the whole trip on $[illegible]

Truly says the [illegible] we were [illegible] they took us in

The gentleman who wrote [illegible] makes the other bandits in Chicago [illegible] sick when a mere pug like Tunney [illegible] get a million in half an hour should [illegible] call that Mr Tunney is of the [illegible] class using gloves instead of [illegible] reading shaw instead of the table [illegible]

Her Smile Remains

How much of his popularity Calvin Coolidge owes to the winning smile of Mrs Coolidge probably will never be determined but those who have basked in its radiance know that it must be considerable

The warmth with which the Coolidges were welcomed back to the national capital must have been due in no small degree to the fact that Washingtonians were delighted to have Mrs Coolidge's sincerely friendly smile back home again. Folks in Washington tell how business men of international note and diplomats from all parts of the world have paid tribute to the winning virtues in the smile that almost always illumines the face of the president's wife

As "Ohio Hider" paragrapher for the Ohio State Journal has said. It would be pretty hard to vote against any man who is married to Mrs Coolidge

Legionnaires in Paris are causing consternation with their demand for baths and soap. The poor French probably wonder why the change recalling days when the boys could easily crawl in without the formality of a bath

Ready for Rainy Days.

Roger W. Babson says that right now is a good time to put one's fiscal house in order, take stock of one's assets and lay aside as much as possible in some form of savings. Of course this is good advice at any time but Babson opines that it is particularly important just now

A lot of Ohio folk seem to agree with him for deposits in the national state and private banks of the state are increasing steadily and rapidly. More than two and a half billion dollars were put away in Ohio banks in the first three months of this year and since that time deposits have been made in even greater volume

The fact that more than half of the deposits made in the state during the year were in the form of savings indicates a healthy economic condition and indicates that the legitimate conduct of varied lines of business will be backed by a comfortable reserve in all parts of the state

Warning To Save the Eyes

BY ROYAL S COPELAND M D

[illegible] the human family [illegible] After all it is a simple term [illegible] meaning painful vision

[illegible] is not a disease [illegible] The name is applied to [illegible] which use of the eyes produces pain

The wonder of it is that the eyes do not [illegible] more pain than they really do. The mechanism of these organs is something remarkable

Consider the eye for a moment. Here is a globe about an inch in diameter but [illegible] the ball is freely movable as if it were a part of a ball and socket joint

The eyeball is intended to move in and toward every way. Its movements are directed by muscles. These work separately or in team

Inside the eye all are other muscles. One set regulates the size of the pupil determining the amount of light which shall enter the eye. It acts as a shutter like the diaphragm of a camera

Another muscle regulates the thickness of the lens of the eye. This controls the focusing and determines the clearness of the vision

How many muscles have I mentioned? At least eight or nine haven't I?

If you go out and drive stakes with a mallet [illegible] you will have one sore muscle [illegible] sore muscles. But you use your eyes every [illegible] and keep these eight or nine muscles [illegible] Is it any wonder they rebel at times

If the team work of the muscles is disturbed or if any muscle becomes weakened or lazy there will arise a group of uncomfortable symptoms called asthenopia. As age advances and the elasticity of the eye tissues is lost it hurts to read [illegible] and there is a general sense of discomfort

All these are symptoms of asthenopia [illegible] The eye may look perfectly normal [illegible] is slight redness and the sensation of itching and burning. A feeling as of sand in the eyes is not uncommon

There may be no pain in the eyeballs but there is a headache over the eyes in the forehead or in the back of the head. Almost any kind of a headache except one on top of the head may be traced to eye trouble

Twitching of the eyelids weakness at the stomach and sleeplessness are other signs. You see there are many which may be due to the need of glasses

Usually the only means of relief is to find a pair of glasses to overcome the defect. It will probably be unnecessary to wear the glasses all the time. When they are used for reading or other close work the pains disappear

Don't neglect these warning signals. Have the eyes tested to see what is wrong. After the age of forty almost everybody needs glasses for close work. In any event if you have painful vision see what is wrong and be advised as to what should be done

GRISSINGER'S RESIGNATION

In announcing his resignation as a member of the federal reserve board D. R. Crissinger said that he wanted to take a job with a real estate firm

The real reason for his going out at this time is because he [illegible] the [illegible] of the [illegible] at Washington the [illegible] of steering [illegible] political [illegible]

The former [illegible] between the reserve board and the Chicago reserve bank [illegible] New York and [illegible] matters [illegible]

A money [illegible]? Some banking experts say so [illegible]

A political blunder? Yes decidedly

Just as [illegible] the board decision was made Democrats who had been active in framing the reserve bank act [illegible] the Wilson administration seized upon it. The Baltimore Sun said that here is a flagrant case of crushing local banking sovereignty by Washington bureaucracy—a thing never intended by framers of the act

It looked like an opening for the Democrats to raise an effective issue

Two courses were open. One was to enter into a full [illegible] of the reserve board's move. That was risky from a political point of view. With [illegible] stock market speculation [illegible] money rates the less said about the federal reserve and its move [illegible] time the better from the standpoint of political peace

The other way out of the difficulty was that of capitulating to the Chicago bankers and offering a [illegible] to placate them. That might [illegible]

Mr. Crissinger was the board governor and one who had [illegible] the Chicago bankers was chosen for the [illegible]—Columbus Citizen

ANOTHER WEDGE

Whether or not the resignation of D. R. Crissinger governor of the federal reserve board, was connected in any way with the recent issue between that body and the board of directors of the Chicago federal bank his [illegible] provide ammunition for members of congress who are preparing legislation which would curb the reserve board's authority. And inasmuch as the president's nominees to the reserve board must be confirmed by the senate it is not hard to imagine difficulty on that ground. For the board was split on the Chicago rate case four to three and if the president names for the governorship some one likely to fall in with the treasury point of view on this and other subjects opposition to the confirmation of his nominee is certain

It would not be surprising if the reserve system became the center of a bitter political fight next winter. The south and west have felt ever since the sharp decline in farm produce prices at the close of the war that the system was in some measure responsible for the depression in agriculture. And they have also been led to believe that our credit policy like our tariff policy has been adapted rather to the needs of manufacture and trade including security speculation than to those of agriculture

During all the years in which the McFadden bill was pending without the administration tied up the federal reserve [illegible] there existed in congress [illegible] the reserve system which [illegible] existence. The last congress however finally passed the McFadden bill will [illegible] reserve bank charters so that continuance of the system will hardly enter into the controversy which has [illegible]

The questions now to be determined are the extent of reserve board authority and the purpose for which credit control are properly to be used. It is fortunate for the system and for the country that [illegible] charter [illegible]—Cleveland Plain Dealer

The Way of the World.

BY GEORGE [illegible]

An old proverb [illegible] telling your troubles [illegible] It does more than [illegible] unwelcome visitor and a [illegible] always be sympathetic [illegible] to our troubles. Be [illegible] they don't enjoy the [illegible] escape the next time [illegible] popular keep on the [illegible] swamp

The president of [illegible] one of those who [illegible] world is not going to be made [illegible] a few days alone. Some [illegible] about. He said

"All of our scientific and [illegible] will never be the measure of the [illegible] advancement of our nation. [illegible] from the sphere of the [illegible] will never give us a civilization and a [illegible] of any worthy and lasting [illegible] unless we are able to see in them [illegible] manifestation of a spiritual [illegible]"

You can work with the mind and rest it at the same time if you know how. It is a good idea to read more than one book at a time. If you are reading a heavy work on the history of philosophy or a scientific book you will do well to take on a new novel at the same time by way of contrast and recreation. The brain is capable of an almost immeasurable amount of use but [illegible] does better on a variety of exercise

The unemployment pension is probably one of the worst things that ever happened to England. It helps many a family for a time but eventually it takes away the independent spirit and the self reliance of the worker. Too much dependence on government is deadly

Congressmen who are the most useful who really give the greatest service to the folks back home are not always the ones who know the most about political issues. They are the ones who answer the most letters who take care of the greatest number of human needs. And congressmen who live the longest are those who keep closest to the people

Views of Those in Public Eye

PAT HARRISON

Pat— Byron Patton—Harrison was born at Crystal Springs Mississippi August 29 1881 and attended the Louisiana State university at Baton Rouge. He began his law practice at Leakesville in 1902 later moving to Gulfport Mississippi where he now resides. Harrison first sought political office in 1906 when he was elected district attorney of the second Mississippi district resigning in 1911. He served as United States congressman from 1911 1919. He has been a Democratic senator from Mississippi since the latter year

Senator Harrison opposing further loans to France says

"This government should take no affirmative position affecting French private loans in this country until France has agreed to the funding of her debt to the United States government. This government through its authorized agents has given the American people and the European countries that [illegible] the United States government to understand that it would not encourage further loans to those governments in this country until the government war loans are funded

"Great Britain Belgium Italy and practically all of the European countries acting upon the suggestion have funded their war obligations. These debt agreements have been approved by the congress. Those countries are now making their payments according to the terms of those agreements. France—and France alone—has refused to agree to a funding of her debt to the United States even though the conditions and terms offered to France by our commissioners have in the most part been more favorable than to practically all of the other European countries

"In view of these circumstances this move to refund a proposed private loan by the international bankers of New York if encouraged by our treasury department in repudiation of its former policy comes with bad faith. The fact that this is not a new loan but a refunding of an old loan makes no difference

"It proposes a favor to France to save France's interest charges. Such a policy on the part of the government will not hasten France's action in the matter of agreeing to pay her war debt to the United States"

Seeing Hollywood.

BY O O McINTYRE

Los Angeles Sept 20—Many have a [illegible] to Hollywood is so [illegible] a sewer in a glass [illegible] a country [illegible] dash and no community

Hollywood is interested chiefly [illegible] It cares little [illegible] The movies made [illegible] and is satisfied. The [illegible] emulating Los Angeles [illegible] passionately, and [illegible] to grandeur

A tiny specialty shop [illegible] with the pictures of movie stars and do a [illegible] near. A butcher displays a [illegible] from some [illegible] heroine [illegible] meat. And he too prospers

Nowhere are movie folk so [illegible] matter how remote the [illegible] spells [illegible] camera man is a god. The town [illegible] perpetual fever of adulation and of course people love it. Gloria Swanson walking [illegible] wood boulevard brings business to a [illegible]

Daily a horse like half circle clots [illegible] entrance of the Montmartre cafe to [illegible] those who have attained cinema [illegible]. Studio exit gates nightly are surrounded [illegible] Hollywood people who seem never [illegible] gazing upon their idols

Along streets you see old geezers with white beards and a faded wonder in the [illegible] as well as chemically straw blondes rouged and girlishly ginghamed [illegible] the big Chance. Hope never reaches [illegible] ebb. It is always at flood tide

Young stenographers and sales girls frequently dye their hair a canary yellow a movie fan powder purple eye shadow a tangerine lip paint just to walk a [illegible] street and be taken for movie folk. In [illegible] a beauty specialist is a beautician [illegible] a filling station is a greasing [illegible] and a manicure parlor is a nail [illegible]. All is different

* * *

Men and women walk along streets in riding costumes. And in the bungalow [illegible] you often see housewives cooking [illegible] meals attired in one piece bathing suits. Nearly half the motorists seem to be in the same attire

* * *

Forty years ago Hollywood was a land overgrown with brush and Los Angeles called it Cahuenga pass. Today it is as well known over the world as London. And it is as provocative and mysterious as Paris

People who might have spent lives of mediocre humdrum have come here and almost over night attained a living splendor staggering the imagination. There is the story of one movie comedian telling all the trick stuff he has in his garden—fountains goldfish pool sundial pergola pavilion statuary etc. "It was just a [illegible] garden when I bought it" he said "now I've got it all gagged up"

* * *

Evidently there is no craving for literature in Hollywood. In a stationery store that has a three cents a day circulating library I heard the attendant tell a girl returning a book her charges were $2 79

* * *

Broadway in no way compares with Hollywood for outlandishly extreme dress. This morning I saw a young girl costumed in a flame red dress hat stockings and shoes—carrying a swagger stick the same hue. In front of a dairy lunch was a blonde young man in white trousers and shoes a deep blue silk sport shirt and a pink sash belt. Monocles are quite commonly used often by women as well as men

* * *

Hollywood lives loosely—there is no [illegible] ing that and if you did a first page rumor would rise to confound you. Yet you have a feeling that that is exactly the way it wants to live. Easy come easy go expresses its spirit. It has been able seemingly to live off its scandal.—Copyright 1927

ARREST GROWS OUT OF FIGHT OVER GIRL

Frank Kepler Pleads Not Guilty. Hearing Scheduled This Afternoon

Frank Kepler 30 of 315 Windsor st. whose fight with his father-in-law Jesse Almendinger near Green Camp last Friday afternoon resulted in the serious illness of Mrs. Almendinger was arrested yesterday afternoon on two charges filed by his father-in-law one charging him with trespassing and the other with assault.

The fight which is said to have occurred near the home of Kepler's parents near Green Camp was the result of an effort on the part of Kepler to recover possession of a 10-year-old daughter who has been making her home with her grandparents.

Mrs. Almendinger who was present when the fight took place, fainted and was taken in a semi-conscious condition to her home where she is reported to be improved.

When arraigned before Judge Martin late yesterday afternoon Kepler entered a plea of not guilty and was released under a $50 bond for his appearance in court this afternoon. The Almendingers assert that they were given the custody of the child by the probate court although records at the probate office fail to reveal where any such order had been issued by Probate Judge I. B. McNeal who is in Europe at the present time.

Humane Officer James H. Lyman however says that the child whose mother is dead and whose father has married the second time was awarded to the grandparents.

This outdoor oven called the "bean hole" in Maine lumber camps produces the finest baked bean flavor known—a flavor now reproduced for the first time

Beans Baked in the ground

now you can taste beans like them

Now you can have beans that taste like those baked outdoors!

What fragrance escapes from the big earthen pot when they brush away the dying embers and lift off the big cover! Beans and crisp tender pork—molasses and brown sugar—all cooked for hours till they are done to a turn.....

That's the way they do it in Maine woods' logging camps—in an outdoor ground oven called the "bean hole."

Till you have tasted beans like that, you wonder that they'd go to all that trouble. Heaping the ingredients layer upon layer in a big pot—sealing the heavy iron cover with clay—and burying it in the campfire's dying embers. But all the wonderful flavor of the outdoors seems to penetrate the "bean hole"—all the fragrances of the forest itself.

No wonder they still cook beans that way in Maine lumber camps.

Good home cooks have always tried to match this luscious flavor—but never till Bean Hole Beans did anyone succeed.

Now you may have, conveniently packaged, beans with that good old-fashioned New England flavor—beans like those baked in the ground!

Bean Hole Beans are named after the Maine logging-camp custom of baking beans in an out-of-door ground oven called the "bean hole."

Two sizes—medium and large.

It's not merely what they'll do —but the way they do it

—that makes friends for the Wolverine

Crowd them a little and most of the cars that you're likely to buy will give you more speed than you're likely to need.

But you never need to crowd a Wolverine. It does its job easily, smoothly, willingly.

Try one yourself and see the way it goes through its paces. Watch how quickly it gathers speed—no straining, no rumbling, no laboring. Hold it at forty or fifty for awhile—that will tell you how easily it will carry you fast hour after hour, mile after mile.

Push it a little faster than you think you dare over a road that's half holes and half bumps—you'll know then what comfort means to the owner of a Wolverine.

If you like a car that's so quick to respond to your every wish, that you can forget the car in the joy of going—you'll find the Wolverine is the kind of car you'll like to own.

"Shall I tell him so?" Sally asked with a twinkle in her eyes. She knew this [illegible] would keep Millie from taking that job.

Millie shook her head with its mop of honey gold curls.

"You needn't bother. I'll go and see him myself in the morning," she said with a great show of indifference. She yawned lazily. "Of course I hate to work in a little one-horse office. I'd rather be in a big place like Bursall's where there are a lot of girls. It's more fun."

Sally knew that this was not true. She knew perfectly well that Millie could have more fun in an office containing one good looking man than in a hundred offices filled with girls. Millie had no interest in girl friends. She was a man's woman pure and simple.

"Well, then why didn't you stay on at Bursall's?" Sally asked quietly.

"You know why I didn't stay," Millie snapped out at her, all the lazy sweetness gone from her voice. "Haven't I told you a dozen times how old Bursall tried to get gay with me, the fresh old bird?—You think this Nye will behave himself, don't you?"

Sally did not answer. She wondered if John Nye would want to behave himself with Millie in the office. Millie who was all allure and invitation from the golden crown of her head to the soles of her little satin-shod feet.

Would any man want to behave himself with Millie? Especially if Millie didn't want him to behave himself?

"Well, it all depends on what you mean by behaving himself," she answered slowly. "I think he's going to fall in love with you if that's what you're talking about."

She was [illegible] John Nye would fall [illegible] she fell asleep an hour later [illegible] very heavy heart.

* * *

The next [illegible] Sally was [illegible] the car [illegible]

[illegible] Breakfast [illegible] geranium [illegible] pressed [illegible] Porter's [illegible] to get the [illegible] Mabel's party [illegible] night [illegible] boiled ham and fruit for the punch.

[illegible] to keep her [illegible] John Nye [illegible] she had stepped out of [illegible] floor. Her bed was unmade and her dressing table was littered with face [illegible] loose powder, open rouge boxes, [illegible] and a soiled handkerchief. The tiny little [illegible] Chinese blue [illegible] over and there was a long [illegible] on the white [illegible]

[illegible] and Sally [illegible] her breath, [illegible] off the [illegible] and putting the [illegible]

She thought of Millie rolling her blue eyes with their fringe of blackened lashes at John Nye. It [illegible] doubt. Smiling at him with the soft scarlet bow of her mouth. Talking to him in that silky slow voice of hers.

"Oh misery," said Sally aloud, and there was very real misery in the sound of her voice.

She went out into the kitchen to squeeze lemons and oranges for Mabel's punch, and the fact that her usually light and swift [illegible] dragged a bit.

* * *

That noon when Sally reached the top floor of the Nye-Naylor Building, she went straight to the door of John Nye's office and turned the knob.

It did not open. It was locked.

"Well, of all things," Sally said it aloud, and then knocked smartly on the door.

There was no answer.

She knocked again. Still no answer.

Then as Sally was turning away to go into Mr. Peevey's little room a sudden illuminating thought came to her. [illegible] John Nye and Millie had gone out to lunch together! That must be why the door was locked and the office empty. That must be why.

"Good morning," she said to Mr. Peevey so spiritlessly that he looked up at her in alarm, thinking that she must be ill. But he didn't ask her if she was. He didn't believe in petting the people who worked for him, asking after their health and giving them raises in their salary and such fool things! Not he!

There was more work than usual that afternoon as it happened and the shadows were long and blue before Sally started home at seven.

As she opened the door of the flat with her latch-key and stepped into the hall she could hear Beau talking on the telephone.

His voice was loud and deep and it resounded through the small rooms.

"Yeah and bring along a cork screw," he was saying joyfully. "It's going to be that kind of a party. Get me?"

"Oh Beau, I hope you're not going to have anything to drink tonight," she said to him when he hung up the receiver.

He laughed down at her from his height. "Hello Katy Killjoy!" was all he said in answer to that. Then he went on:

"Ted Sloan was up here a minute ago to tell you that he couldn't keep some date or other he had with you tonight."

"Yes and let me tell you what your friend Nye pulled on me today!" added Millie coming out of her mother's bedroom in a flowing cotton kimono and house slippers. "I went down to see [illegible] and carry all he [illegible] office. [illegible]

[illegible]

The party was a noisy affair.

Sally [illegible] with a book [illegible] burst of shrill laughter [illegible] the phonograph. Once Millie screamed at the top of her voice and there came the distant sound of a glass crashing to pieces on the kitchen floor.

"There's fifty cents gone for good," [illegible] Sally, who has to pay for these things usually. "Oh, dear! I hope they're not drinking! They shouldn't—"

But she fell asleep soon after ten o'clock with all the noise and clamor at its height around her. She had been up for sixteen hours and she was worn out.

She didn't know what time it was when a sudden flash of bright light woke her up. Blinking and confused she opened her eyes.

Beau's girl Mabel had come into the room and was leaning over her.

"[illegible] darling," she said thickly, and as she spoke Sally caught the odor of gin on her breath. "[illegible] were too tired to come to the party and [illegible] a beautiful time. The punch and the sandwiches were wonderful."

Sally was wide awake now. "That reminds me," she said clearly. "I [illegible] could show you how much I spent. It's right here in my purse—"

"Oh, don't bother me with it, please," begged Mabel prettily. "Beau will pay you. He said he would—" And she danced out of the room rather unsteadily, hanging herself against the edge of the door as she went.

"Wait a minute, Mabel! I've got to see you!"

Didn't Mabel know that Beau never paid for anything? Not even his laundry?

But Mabel was gone. The sound of her gay voice chattering to Beau died away as she left the little flat and went down the stairs that led to the street.

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M. LEWIS

Today was the second day of school. If all of the days of school could be like the first day a fella could get a lot of fun out of it. But they aren't.

Mush and his wife are still janitors. But they are quite stylish. Mush is still driving the truck hauling stuff to [illegible] with. He told me he wanted to quit when school opened up and take back his old job and [illegible] but his wife wouldn't let him. He said she takes all his money and makes him do the painting at night. She has got some new silk stockings and some new hats and dresses. And her knees are bare and her dress is short and she is very stylish and she puts some red stuff on her lips like my aunt.

I don't think the teachers had got a look at her till this morning and they had all got near the school and came together and were standing at the front door of the school when here came Mush's wife around the corner going [illegible]. She was painted and dressed up like a fire department and was wiggling herself as she walked and Feeble was walking behind her [illegible] her and the teachers stood there with their mouths wide open. Then one of them giggled and Mush's wife started to look back at them and saw Feeble and she swung around on her and asked, "Was you following me?" and Feeble said, "Who would like to know?" and Mush's wife said, "If I thought you was imitating me I would slap your face crooked." and Feeble said, "Here hit me right here!" and stuck out her face and Mush's wife swung on her with every ounce she had and if she had landed Feeble would of turned a row of cartwheels all the way to the back fence but just as the blow was almost here she ducked as good as I could of done and Mush's wife was having a hard time to keep from falling down when Feeble reached out with one finger and pushed her and down she went. All of her clothes are shiny like the [illegible] ones.

Jubilee who was jumping around went over and licked her face before she could get up and [illegible] up and aimed a kick at him and [illegible] away with his tail below his legs and the kick went almost as high as the second story and then Mush's wife went back in the house and [illegible] the teachers went in and [illegible] rang and we all went in.

School is once start[ed] [illegible] is over and my mother says she is glad. I have lived through it. Her and me both. If my aunt is disappointed she didn't want to say so [illegible]

The Star's Daily Story for Boys and Girls

BY FLORENCE S. VINCENT

"HA! HA! HA!" Here [illegible] Salt Water Turtle began to chuckle until his [illegible] shook.

"Well what is the joke?" [illegible] his cousins and his uncle and his sisters and his aunts. "It must be very funny or you would not laugh like that."

"It is, and it is on me," chuckled Salt Water Turtle. "One day I was paddling about near the shore when suddenly I noticed the water that only a moment before had been as clear as crystal, was getting a queer purplish color and so cloudy that I couldn't see what the Sea Robbers were doing, and I had been watching them at work."

"Who are the Sea Robbers?" asked little Terrapin, but Salt Water Turtle held up one claw bidding him to keep quiet.

"I'll come to them in good time," said he. "I must tell things in my own way, sonny, or I can't tell them at all. Well, as I was saying, the water grew darker and darker until soon it was almost black. And it was only around where I was. Just a little way the surface of the sea was as clear and as blue as ever. Now the rocks upon that shore are very sharp.

"Could I have [illegible] upon their jagged edges without knowing it? I had never known [illegible] black, but I didn't know what else it could be. I carefully examined one [illegible] after the other. Nothing was wrong with me that I could discover.

"Then I had a terrible thought. Perhaps some unseen enemy was churning his way through the mud beneath me waiting until I should sink down for a rest, when he would grab me unaware.

"Yes sir! It might be an enemy—stirring up the water! It didn't take me long to kick off from shore, and when I reached clear water I turned about, and what do you think I saw?"

"Another monster with long sharp teeth," ventured Little Terrapin. Turtle shook his head.

"Not this time," said he. "At first sight I took the creature to be a great beetle but then I saw long feelers—tentacles they call them at sea—moving before him and I knew no beetle had anything like them.

"It was Cuttle Fish and he was fleeing from something just as fast as he could go and every time he darted forward he squirted out a [illegible] fluid that discolored the water behind him.

"Even I with my bright eyes lost sight of him, and when the water cleared again he was nowhere to be found.

"Clever Cuttle Fish made a safe get away. He knew how to protect himself — just squirted ink [illegible] the waters, that was all."

A Sequel to "Revelations of a Wife"

BY ADELE GARRISON

AFRAID TO MEET FATHER

MARY looked at me in amazement when in answer to her request to come to the veranda I told her that I supposed Noel Veritzen was down there declaring that he ought not to come to our welcome-home dinner to the Underwoods.

"How did you know?" she stammered.

"By the simplest means possible," I told her smiling. "He asked me several days ago to excuse him from attending."

"But why?" she demanded patently puzzled.

"Think a minute," I suggested.

Unexpectedly she flushed.

"You don't mean that he's foolish enough—"

"To be jealous of young Mr. Jackson," I finished as she hesitated in pretty confusion, and wondered how best to deliver a blow in behalf of the adoring young violinist. "No, frankly Mary, I think that's the least of his troubles on this particular evening."

From under my eyelids I looked searchingly at her and was delighted to see that my answer was distinctly distasteful to her. I had scored one for Noel I told myself gleefully as I hurried on in voluble explanation.

"Have you forgotten that his father is to be one of our guests this evening?" I asked reproachfully. "That of itself is enough to upset the poor boy. He hasn't [illegible] to sitting at the same table with his father in spite of the estrangement but he is afraid of what the elder man may do when he finds out about it."

Mary nodded her head sagely.

"I don't blame him," she said. "I always feel that being near Mr. Veritzen is like standing in the crater of a volcano. You're never certain what the blasted thing is going to do next."

I gave her the tribute of a laugh which her nonsense generally exacts, cast a last glance at myself in the mirror and started for the door.

"You're all ready, aren't you?" I asked.

"As ready as I'll ever be," she returned. "My hair's a mess and this gown never did hang right, but I can't get it any better."

I shot a quick appraising glance at her almost perfect grooming and smiled ironically at her.

ANOTHER MARION LADY INDORSING THE NEW KONJOLA

Ended the Dreadful Neuritis Pains She Was Suffering

[illegible] from all parts of Marion [illegible] are describing the wonderful relief this [illegible] medicine has given them in cases of stomach, liver, kidney and bowel troubles or rheumatism and neuritis. Just a few days ago Mrs. Emma McNeal, well known Marion lady living at 822 [illegible] Ave., this city, made the following remarkable statement to the Konjola Man who is at the Stump and Sams Pharmacy, 121 S. Main St., Marion, where he is meeting large crowds of people every day and explaining this surprising new compound.

MRS. EMMA McNEAL

"Konjola has helped me a great deal more than I ever expected of any medicine," said Mrs. McNeal. "It built up my health in general and at the same time it relieved the awful neuritis pains which I had been suffering for years.

"I was having a terrible time with my nerves and I couldn't find a medicine to help me. But the worst thing about my case was the dreadful neuritis pains which affected my arms and limbs. My muscles seemed to jerk and twist and I often felt like every nerve in my body was on edge. I couldn't sleep and I know I was suffering worse agonies than I could describe in writing. Both day and night I was in misery.

"I couldn't find anything that would really end my trouble and I didn't know what to do next. Then I heard about Konjola and what it was doing for Marion people, so I went to the Konjola Man and I got this medicine and started taking it right away. I noticed a difference almost at once and I continued with Konjola until now I can hardly realize that I ever had a sick day in my life and the wonderful relief I got from that awful neuritis is the greatest blessing of all. I can sleep a whole night without one single pain. I always feel good in the mornings, and seem to have more life and energy than I ever noticed in myself before.

"After all the great good Konjola has done for me I can recommend it to everyone."

The Konjola Man is at the Stump & Sams Pharmacy, 121 South Main St., Marion, where he is daily meeting the local public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy. Konjola is now being sold by all of the good druggists in every nearby town of this whole section.—Adv.
